Quakers Face Tech Tonight for Championship Salem Tops Middies In Semi-Finals 68-65

By GORDON ARNDT

The Salem High School Quakers are in the Ohio Class AA basketball finals tonight.

They advanced into the championship contest with Cleveland East Tech at St. John's Arena in Columbus after a spine-tingling, come-from-behind victory there Friday night over the Middletown Middies, 68-65.

A capacity crowd of 13,924 saw the Mighty Quakers turn back Middletown in one of two semi-final games played in the Arena on the Ohio State campus.

East Tech enters the game with 24 straight wins this season and 50 covering the last two campaigns. The Quakers, now 25-1 this season, will seek their 23rd successive win. The last time Salem lost was to Tech here last Dec. 26, 68-59. Since then every Quaker fan has been anticipating the return match which is now assured.

This will be the "game of games" tonight where each team will be fighting for supremacy in Ohio's Class AA cage circles.

SALEM'S VICTORY LAST NIGHT over the vaunted Middies, who closed the season with a 21-5 record, was another one of those games in which the Quakers didn't know when to quit. Just when the chips were down, the fighting Red and Black called on their tremendous heart and unconquerable spirit to pull the game out of the grasp of defeat.

With two minutes and 58 seconds left in the second quarter, almost every Salem fan feared the worst. However, undaunted and equipped with that desire to win which has characterized their play in recent regional and district tourney games, the Quakers again rose to the occasion and plowed their way through the rugged field of apparent defeat on to the bright horizon of victory.

It is impossible to single out any one player as a Salem hero. It was the concerted efforts of every man on the floor.

Salem took a 3-0 lead on a jump shot by Dan Krichbaum and a foul shot by Clyde Marks. The score was tied 5-5 when Salem went to work like they were going to mop up the floor with Middletown. Krichbaum hit a short jump shot and a drive-in lay up, while Marks followed with a charity throw.

Salem kept rolling on a hook shot by Dave Hunter and the tally became 12-5 for Salem.

Just when Middletown seemed to collapse, they came to life quickly to show the Quakers they were no slouch. They proceeded to score 10 straight points and, with one minute left in the first quarter, they went ahead of Salem 15-12.

BOTH TEAMS throughout the game utilized fast breaks as much as they could, besides being tighter on defense than a lid on a jar.

Middletown's spree resulted from Salem's lack of ability to get rebounds. The Middies were exceptionally hot, too. They would score about every time Salem would miss a shot.

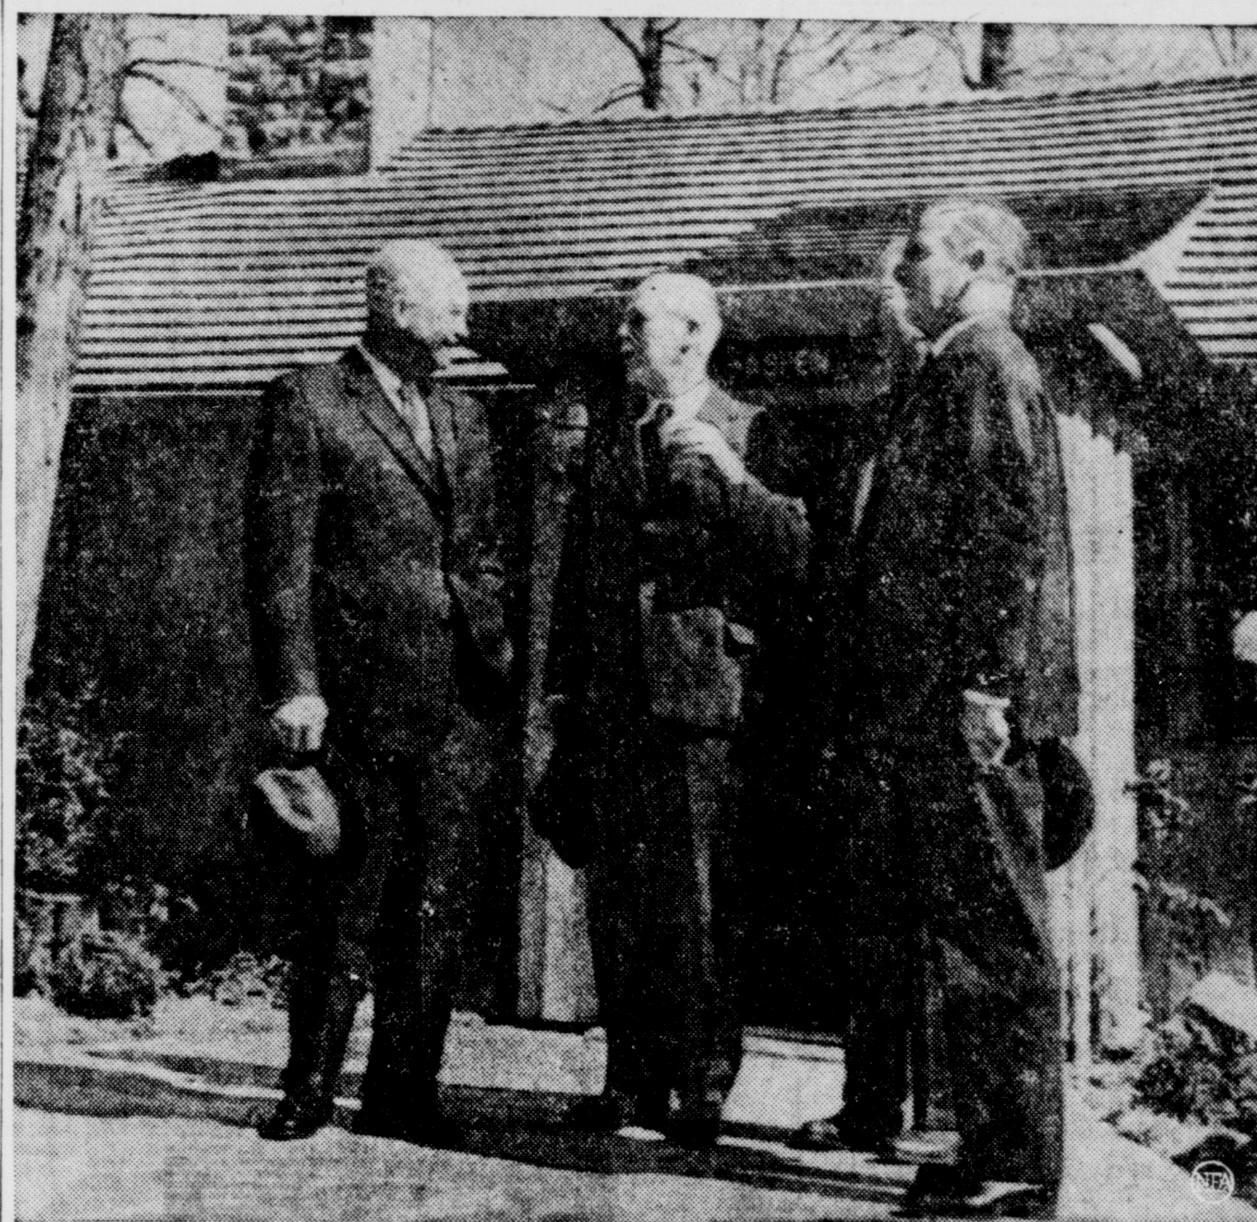

Hunter sparked Salem's offense early in the second quarter, by hitting for seven points. With 4:08 left in the half the score was tied 27-27. Middletown then got moving with authority, and proceeded to create the impression that Salem should have stayed at home. A. C. Mitchell, the Middies 6-2 center, sparked the purple and white's rally and with 2:58 remaining in the half the southwest Ohioans were ahead 34-27.

JUST WHEN THINGS SEEMED darkest for Salem, the rays of light quickly filtrated back, on additional scoring by Krichbaum and Woody Deitch. The half ended with Middletown ahead 36-33.

The officials called 43 fouls in the game. Dale Wood 6-6

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan agreed today on a formula for offering to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev the prospect of a summit conference later this year.

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan sought today a compromise formula to offer Soviet Premier Khrushchev the prospect of a summit conference this summer.

The two leaders opened the second day of their Camp David conference, on a wooded ridge in the nearby Maryland mountains, at 9:40 a.m. EST.

Eisenhower and Macmillan, with their regular advisers, were joined by Sir Anthony Rumbold, an assistant undersecretary of the British Foreign Office in charge of European affairs and high level East-West talks.

Rumbold's presence, along with such regular counselors such as Acting U.S. Secretary of State Christian Herter and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, spotlighted the problem of working out some agreeable arrangement on the summit issue.

Macmillan wants to give Khrushchev definite notice of unconditional Western readiness for a summit meeting. Eisenhower is standing firm on his position that a summit conference should be held only if developments in a prior foreign ministers meeting justified it.

The talks were resumed in pleasant spring weather, the same kind in which Eisenhower and Macmillan flew by helicopter Friday from Washington.

White House Press Secretary James Hagerly telephoned word of the opening of today's discussions from Camp David to the press center in Gettysburg.

Second Day of Conference

Moving into the second day of their Camp David conference, the Allied leaders also were expected to discuss military arrangements in support of their determination to maintain the Western position in Berlin despite Soviet pressures.

Dep. Secretary of Defense Donald A. Quarles was summoned from Washington to participate in the Berlin crisis talks. Also asked to the Catocin Mountain conference room were John A. McCone,

Levy Resubmitted By Mahoning Local

An on-again, off-again special election in Mahoning Local School District is on again, the County Election Board was advised Friday by the Mahoning County Board of Elections.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the Columbiana Board, said the school district resubmitted a 3-mill operating levy yesterday. The levy originally was submitted about six weeks ago and then withdrawn about two weeks ago by school district officials.

The levy will be voted on at a special election May 5, the same day as the primaries, in the district, which includes Knox and Butler Township in Columbiana County.

The board will have to reorder poll books for the election after canceling the original arrangements when the levy was withdrawn, O'Hanlon said.

Woman Gets Death Penalty

Mrs. Duncan's Only
Hope Is Sanity Test

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — A sanity hearing next Tuesday holds Elizabeth Duncan's last hope of escaping sentence to the gas chamber for plotting the murder of her daughter-in-law.

A jury, which earlier had convicted her of first-degree murder in offering two men $6,000 to kill Olga Kupczyk Duncan, 30, a Canadian nurse, decreed Friday night that she must pay with her own life.

Prosecution and defense agreed to permit trial Judge Charles Blackstock to rule, without a jury, on Mrs. Duncan's sanity, since her plea of innocent by reason of insanity is still pending. Two court-appointed psychiatrists have testified they consider her legally sane.

If the court also holds the 54-year-old, off-married Mrs. Duncan to be sane, a date will be set for the sentencing, but the jury's determination for the death penalty is mandatory. She would be confined in the County Jail to await her automatic appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Mrs. Duncan showed little or no emotion at the jury's verdict but,

Planes, Ships Seek U.S. Rocket Cone

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Air Force hurled a futuristic ICBM warhead far out over the Atlantic aboard a fiery Thor-Able rocket today and hoped to recover it intact for the first time in six launches.

6 Are Indicted For Canton Arms Theft

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — A federal grand jury today indicted six men in connection with a government seizure of arms being flown from Russellton, Pa., to Morgantown, W.Va. The weapons at the time they were confiscated, were reported by federal authorities to have been destined for the followers of Fidel Castro in the Cuban rebellion.

Listed as defendants were: Norman Rothman of Surfside, Fla.; Stuart Sutor, Hialeah, Fla.; Joseph Merola, Miami Beach, Fla.; and Victor Carlucci, Daniel Hanna and Joseph Giordano all of New Kensington, Pa.

The government said that the contraband arms included equipment stolen from the National Guard Armory at Canton, Ohio. The defendants were charged

Storm Lashes Southwest

Snow, Tornadoes Mark Departure of Winter

By The Associated Press
Winter bowed out to spring today, after unleashing a farewell storm Friday that brought near-blizzard conditions and dust storms to part of the Southwest and three tornadoes that caused minor damage to Texas.

Spring began today at 3:55 a.m. (EST).

Two persons died in Colorado from exertions blamed on the snow there.

One tornado struck near Trenton, Tex., 50 miles northeast of Dallas, destroying or damaging five houses and six barns. Another tornado uprooted trees and damaged two houses as it brushed the northeast edge of Marshall, Tex.

The third damaged 22 homes, three badly, at Paxton, a village of about 200 persons 40 miles south of Marshall near the Louisiana line.

Winds up to 86 m.p.h. howled appeared to perform perfectly during the 2½ minutes it was in sight after a spectacular blastoff.

A fleet of search ships and planes waited in rendezvous off Ascension Island 5,000 miles to the southeast ready to recover the elusive cone after it splashed into the sea.

A bright puff and then a tiny flash of light in rapid succession indicated that the second stage of the 80-foot launching vehicle had ignited.

Up to now the Air Force had failed to retrieve one of the tiny cones that are vital in aiding missile scientists to develop the ultimate nuclear warhead shield for such ICBM's of the future as the Titan and Minuteman.

Five previous flights in 10 months — three of them with tiny white mice aboard — all resulted in failure, although two of the Thor-Ables flew intercontinental range without a hitch.

The latest Thor-Able was equipped with an advanced guidance system — the same as in the massive Titan — to insure greater accuracy on the flight 80 miles in space.

Last Wednesday the Air Force made a first attempt to recover the operational type warhead of an Atlas ICBM, but the mission failed when the missile ran out of steam after only about 700 miles of a planned 4,500 mile shot.

The last Thor-Able was fired Feb. 28, but it was blown up seconds later when instrumentation failed high in the sky.

Set to Flood Market
With Low-priced Oil

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The Soviets are getting set with thousands of miles of pipelines to flood the north European market with low-priced crude oil.

Scandinavian sources said today the oil will flow from areas as far away as Baku on the Caspian Sea.

A Finnish trade delegation headed by Trade Minister Ahti Karjalainen which returned to Helsinki from Moscow this week confirmed that the Soviets have completed a huge transcontinental network to link the Caspian and Black seas with the Baltic.

The Fins were offered Soviet oil "at a very favorable price," a spokesman said. The exact price was not disclosed.

Soviet technicians are putting the finishing touches on a modern port for tankers at Klaipeda (prewar Memel), in Lithuania. It is expected to be put into operation for small tankers this spring. Another oil port is planned at

Boost In Arsenal Employment Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert Cook (D-Ohio) promised 3,000 petitioning Ohioans today to sound out every concerned government agency in an attempt to step up work at the Ravenna Arsenal.

Cook gave this assurance in letters to those businessmen and others who had protested in a petition the employment decline at the arsenal from a wartime peak of 20,000 employees to a present day 206.

Cook's district has considerable unemployment. Portage County — where the Ravenna Arsenal is — has 1,600 or 7.5 per cent unemployed.

Cook said he could make no promises as to what he can accomplish towards reactivating the arsenal.

One complaint of the petitioners was that the military is acquiring more land for munitions plants while existing arsenals are not being fully used.

Cook said he has checked this point, and has found that the military is not engaged in buying new land for this type of activity.

Two Explosions Reported In Strike Area

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP) — Two more explosions were reported in this city Friday night as Gov. Luther Hodges met with federal and state negotiators for discussions on a violence-filled, four-months-old cotton mill strike.

Said Hodges at the executive mansion in Raleigh: "I am encouraged that the bargaining meeting continues and I am urging that they come to an agreement at that time."

For the second straight night there were blasts at the vacant home of Garland C. Cash, a non-striker. Cash shot and wounded a man Sunday. He said the man was "trying to light something" outside the house.

Officials of the strikebound Harriet-Henderson mill are considering a union counter proposal on one of the key issues of the dispute — arbitration.

Boyd Payton, Carolinas director of the Textile Workers Union of America, said the union offered to limit the number of cases which can be called to arbitration.

When the company refused to renew a 14-year-old arbitration clause in a new contract with the union, the TWUA's two Henderson locals walked out Nov. 17. Management reopened its two mills Feb. 16 on a one-shift basis.

Fans Wait All Night For Tourney Tickets

Salem High School basketball fans, eager to get the 500 tickets which were to go on sale at Fisher's News agency at 8 this morning, following Salem's win over Middletown last night in the state semi-finals at Columbus, started lining up at the newsstand at 10:30 last night.

Many stood in line all night, despite a spring rain, to get tickets to tonight's Salem-Cleveland East Tech championship game.

When the tickets arrived from Columbus at 4 a.m., the line extended around the corner on N. Lundy Ave. to the Ohio Bell building. Because several hundred fans were waiting, the ticket sale started at 6 a.m. By 6:45 all tickets had been sold.

Whereabouts of Dalai Lama Unknown

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Fighting is raging in Lhasa, capital of Communist-held Tibet, the Indian Foreign Ministry reported today.

A terse midnight radio report from the Indian representative in "The Roof of the World" said: "Fighting in immediate vicinity of consulate. Situation tense and rising."

This was all that was received here suggesting the possibility that the radio — only free world link with Tibet — may have been cut off.

The Indian consulate is just outside Lhasa between the Dalai Lama's summer and winter palaces, which are only two miles apart.

The uprising was sparked, according to the Indian press, by an order to the 25-year-old god-king

President Blasts Action

House Group Rejects Ike's Request for Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new flare up in the battle of the budget appeared in prospect today as a result of President Eisenhower's strong denunciation of a House committee's fund cutting.

"Irresponsible action," Eisenhower said Friday after the House Appropriations Committee rejected his request for 225 million dollars in supplementary money for the Development Loan Fund.

In a statement issued from his Camp David, Md., headquarters, Eisenhower said:

"The action today if not reversed will represent a long step backward toward isolating our country and weakening our national security."

Speaking in unusually strong terms, Eisenhower said the loan fund "must have additional funds now." The fund finances loans to underdeveloped areas in connection with the foreign aid program.

The committee's rejection of the fund request highlighted a day of budget slashing.

The House itself cut more than 60 million dollars from proposed funds to finance the Treasury and Post Office departments during the 1960 fiscal year beginning next July 1.

On the Psychology of Geese

The most vexing problem of the day is how to collect enough taxes to pay for what the people were told they wanted by public officials who promised to give them everything they needed — for next to nothing.

The taxation chickens have come home to roost in the multi-million-dollar chicken house of the welfare state. Whether it's Michigan, which has been turning money sacks inside out to look for loose coins, New York, where Gov. Rockefeller inherited the job of balancing a budget left lopsided by his predecessor, or Ohio with its surpluses down for the first time in a decade, the problem is everywhere the same.

It is how to understand the psychology of the taxpaying geese — the source of all revenue feathers.

Suddenly the geese have grown alarmed. Never before have so many determined tax collectors headed toward them with empty sacks. Instead of waiting patiently and obediently to have their feathers plucked, as taxpayers are supposed to do, the geese are honking and flapping their wings.

This was not in the script.

The geese did not expect this kind of an onslaught.

THEY THOUGHT they would be relieved of a few feathers from time to time in return for all the corn they could eat, all the ponds they could swim in and all the highways they could strut on.

They believed the political gooseherds who cooed to them that this must be goose heaven right here on earth—everything coming in, nothing going out.

When the same gooseherds show up with empty sacks to stuff feathers in and that determined look on their faces, it is small wonder the geese grow panicky. They sense that something is wrong. They remember what happened to their famous ancestor that laid the golden eggs and was killed by the insane greed of a knucklehead who thought it would be easier to get all the eggs at once.

Actually, the taxpaying geese are not in acute danger. It's psychology, not economics, that is causing them to flap and squawk. That is to say, any economist with a sharp pencil and a scrap of paper can prove to them they are better off than the geese on the other side of the mountain, or the ocean, or the world.

The danger is not that they might be plucked of all their feathers, despite their fears, but that they might do themselves great harm by flapping themselves to death in their sudden reluctance to lose any more feathers than they have been losing.

It's really a problem in psychology for the tax-collecting gooseherds, who also are the corn-distributing politicians.

The tax collectors and corn distributors must find a way to let the geese know they are one and the same and must never be thought of separately.

They must learn how to let the geese know that every handful of welfare corn is going to be paid for with a handful of hard-grown feathers. This never has been done before, but it never mattered before. The geese never went into such panic before.

IT IS NO trivial matter. When the geese panicked in France, stimulated by a mischievous character named Poujade, it marked the end of the Fourth Republic, together with other troubles occasioned by politicians who failed to tell how many feathers would be demanded in return for so much corn.

The trouble was not that Frenchmen could not pay but that they were unwilling to be charged. Last year they were prepared for the shock. Or as a threadbare axiom of the taxing business puts it, the trick is to get as many feathers off the goose as possible with the least possible flapping. A mad goose is no laughing matter.

Treatment for a Chronic Emergency

The year 1959 is going to be remembered as the time when lawmakers began to vote permanent help for the temporarily unemployed.

Barring the remote possibility of a war boom so resounding that every idle worker would be shaken off the unemployment lists into a job, there will be a continuation of the phenomenon of rising employment and rising unemployment at the same time.

The problem will plague state legislatures, administrators of unemployment compensation funds and Congress. It will heap fuel on the fires of animosity against employers by left-leaning unionists, and it will give economists something to pontificate about when they are explaining the relationship between productivity and unemployment.

The automobile industry this year is producing more cars than it produced last year with substantially fewer men. In the last 50 years, output per man-hour of labor has tripled, thanks to management's continuous investment in better tools. But as the tools have become better it has become necessary to find better workers.

This is why hundreds of thousands of the temporarily unemployed in 1959 may never be employed again, barring a war boom. They may never be able to demonstrate that they possess the skill needed to find work in their category of employment. Employment will be more selective.

The technologically unemployed will be like the college graduates of yesteryear who must admit when told about the qualifications of today's students that they could not have made the grade in their day if it had been that steep.

Perhaps they will develop new skills or find employment eventually in jobs that require no special skills. But state legislators and congressmen do not expect miracles. Unemployment compensation, which had been stretched out in 1958 to cover a longer emergency than had been expected, now is being stretched again. For many workers, the emergency is beginning to be permanent.

Meanwhile Back at the Ranch

With the best intentions imaginable, the managers of the American National Exhibition in Moscow this coming summer are going to lead Ivan and Petrushka Nyet, the Joe and Susie Doakes of galloping socialism, down the garden path.

The exhibit will feature a ranch home of the type currently fashionable in U.S. suburbia, and unavoidably Ivan and Petrushka will think this is the way all of us capitalist beasts seek shelter. That is, of course, the whole idea, because Russians as a whole never dreamed of anything so flossy as a ranch house. Not uncommonly, whole families of Russians live in a single room in city apartments and in rural houses that would be little more than tool sheds in the United States. Suburbia is still in the future in Russia.

But not all of us capitalist beasts live in ranch houses; that should be made clear to Russian visitors at the American National Exhibition. It would not be practical to show them all the other kinds of houses we have here, but there might be a few photographs and floor plans to give them the general idea.

For example, there is one kind of U.S. dwelling that might be called the original split-level job. It was split four ways—basement, first floor, second floor and attic. Sometimes the attic actually was a third floor, fixed up for occupancy.

The point to be made for Ivan and Petrushka is that millions of us made our start in the world in houses like that and many of us still like the arrangement. In fact, we think it may tell something about our national character that we find it agreeable to have the privacy that is one of the inalienable rights of homo Americanus.

There are even times when we think the four-way split level might become a fad again, as it did centuries ago when the early settlers tired of their one-floor quarters.

But little did he think that one day a Vermont man could take a swim at Waikiki Beach and still be in his own country. Hawaii is 2,000 miles from the U.S. as the straw skirt flies. This is a record trip from one state to the border of its sister state.

The admission has made the biggest hit with the home public since "South Pacific." While Rodgers and Hammerstein world of different islands, the words and music of "Bali Ha'i" helped and a lot of congressmen still think "Across A Crowded Room" was a Hawaiian hotel theme song.

KEITH McHUGH quit $158,000 a year telephone job to become Gov. Rockefeller's Commerce Commission chief at $18,500. That's what we call paying the highest telephone bill on record. The governor may have picked McHugh because (1) he wanted to get his message through fast; (2) he wanted to find a way to cut off calls beginning with "I voted for you, but am I having gas and cigarette troubles."

A Ringling Brothers circus will play 47 day and night run in New York, longest ever. This makes it harder for lions and tigers to sneer "New York is all right for a short visit but I wouldn't want to live there all the time." John Ringling North, like all boys once dreamed of owning a circus. But he is first one to own one and have additional kick of writing the music for it.

Fulbright In Good Voice

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright held his tongue for a short time after becoming chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee. But now he's in good voice again.

The 53-year-old Democrat from Arkansas has been for years perhaps the most constant and biting critic of the Eisenhower administration's handling of foreign policy.

His particular target used to be the now-ailing Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. But since Dulles had to step aside, perhaps permanently, to fight cancer, Fulbright has offered no direct criticism of him.

But he is still banging at the administration.

A few criticisms give a sample of his style: Last year he called on President Eisenhower to abandon "sugar-coated half-truths" that have made us "fat and immobile in the past five years."

Again, last year, he urged a sweeping revision of American foreign policy to stop what he called a "drift to disaster." He called our foreign policy "inadequate, outmoded and misdirected."

The chairmanship of the Foreign Relations Committee is one of the most important and powerful in Congress. For a brief period after becoming chairman Fulbright remained fairly mild, limiting himself more or less to suggestions.

(One of his suggestions once got him in bad with former President Truman. That was in 1946 when the Republicans won control of Congress and Fulbright suggested Truman resign.)

In his mild period this year Fulbright cautioned his fellow senators who were demanding drastic action in the Berlin crisis that the President has the "basic responsibility — and authority — for our foreign policy."

He added "No football team can expect to win a game with every man his own quarterback."

He did express hope that President Eisenhower and the State Department would stand up against Republican political pressure in picking ambassadors.

And he even suggested to the administration whom it should name secretary of state if Dulles couldn't return. He proposed the job go to Under Secretary Christian Herter.

But the Senator, who had been a football player, president of the University of Arkansas, and a Rhodes scholar at Oxford, picked up speed as the weeks passed and he settled down in his job as chairman.

Although Eisenhower has been very wary of even one more summit conference with Premier Nikita Khrushchev, last Saturday Fulbright proposed summit conferences should become a regular thing, held "maybe twice a year."

He said "maybe one of these days we'll come to have a little confidence in one matter and a little understanding."

Two nights later Eisenhower, in his nationwide broadcast, made headlines around the world by expressing willingness for a summit conference this summer if first the foreign ministers show sign of progress to make a summit worthwhile.

Fulbright also proposed eventual pullback of Western and Soviet troops in Europe—after negotiations, of course. Pullback has been called by another name: disengagement.

The idea of disengagement previously had been ridiculed by Fulbright's fellow Democrat and expert on foreign affairs, former Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

The words pullback and disengagement have become for some people synonymous with retreat and appeasement. But Fulbright has said disengagement shouldn't be confused with appeasement.

He said he sees no particular virtue in the "status quo."

Wednesday Fulbright let go at the administration in his old style. He said its handling of foreign aid indicates it is "unaware of the depth and scope of the Soviet challenge."

He said "I believe that the people of America will rise to the needs of our situation if they are clearly told what is at stake."

Byrd Pleads for Halt to Spending

If you're one of the "spenders" in Congress and you ridicule the idea of a balanced budget, you get plenty of attention. But if you're a "saver" and want to keep the American dollar from being forced down to a value of 10 cents, then you're old-fashioned and not in tune with the times.

Sen. Harry Byrd

Byrd of Virginia happens to be chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. He also happens to be a member of the Democratic party, so many of whose members are trying to make a virtue of bigger and bigger spending by government. Yet, when he spoke Tuesday night at the National Taxpayers Conference in Washington, his words got scant attention.

"Contrary to general understanding," Sen. Byrd said, "recent great increases in federal spending have not been for defense or foreign aid. The tremendous increases have been for domestic - civilian programs."

This alone seems to be a worthwhile piece of news. For, in the speeches emanating from Capitol Hill, President Eisenhower is repeatedly being accused of trying to balance the budget at the expense of national defense in the battle against the Communists.

THE PURPOSE of the crusade for more spending is, of course, to break the faith of the public in budget-balancing by using defense as an excuse, so that all sorts of subsidies and grants can be made in the guise of social reform.

The Virginia Senator says: "Since 1954 expenditures outside of defense, atomic energy, and foreign aid categories increased from $19,100,000,000 to 34 billion estimated in the current year."

"This is an increase of $14,900,000,000, or 78 per cent. There is terrific pressure in the current session of Congress for enactment of more non-essential spending programs. Almost invariably these new spending programs involve multi-year or permanent commitments for heavy spending in the future."

"Much of the domestic - civilian spending is for subsidies — and by subsidies I mean nearly all kinds of loans, grants and payments out of the federal treasury to special beneficiaries. Many of these subsidy programs are bottomless pits for federal spending and contribute to sky-high inflation."

"The federal government of the United States cannot now pay its bills except by increasing debt and inflation. Revenue at present tax rates does not meet our commitments."

"INTEREST on the federal debt is taking approximately one-tenth of all taxes collected."

"Chronic inflation has reduced the purchasing power of our money 52 per cent. The American dollar is now worth 48 cents by the 1939 index."

"Inflation destroys fixed incomes, provident investment, prudent business, sound financing, national security and democratic government."

"More than 20 years of destructive inflation in this country to date have led to continual demands for increased federal subsidization."

"The federal government is now subsidizing business, industry, private finance, agriculture, transportation, power, health, education, states, localities, individuals, etc."

"By the process of cheapening our money and centralizing power in the federal government we have descended to a level of state socialism which is obvious, if not admitted."

"Social democracy is a subterfuge for sound government and constructive enterprise. Its evils are historically documented wherever nations have stooped to it..."

"When governments become insolvent, their money becomes worthless and they go through a revolution wringer."

"The nature and process of the revolutions may vary but invariably the form of government is changed. There is no reason to think free enterprise democracy as we have known it could survive."

SEN. BYRD said that he concedes the necessity for deficits in extreme emergencies but that in its first 150 years America met its emergencies and then promptly restored sound financing, balanced the budget and began paying off debt.

He points out that nearly 40 million persons are getting direct payments from the federal treasury this year and that, with their families, this could reach a number equal to half the population of the United States.

He appeals to his colleagues in Congress to stop the spending. He says that "cynics advocate more inflation to produce more revenue but it increases the cost of everything the government buys."

The Virginia senator adds: "The situation will continue to grow worse unless there is drastic action in the immediate future."

This plea by the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee — who, though a Democrat, supports the President's efforts to balance the budget — is significant news.

Liberals Soak Poor

By RAYMOND MOLEY

The monstrous hypocrisy of the liberal groups now in control of Congress could not be better illustrated than in the omnibus housing bill before the House and the one passed by the Senate in February. These breast-beating friends of the "little fellow" propose, as they have enacted in tae apis, much bigger windfall for rich investors than the alleged benefits they offer in subsidies to the people they claim to help by cheap housing.

Speeches by three members of the House, taking less than 10 minutes of the time of the House on March 3 and 9, have opened an issue which, if seized by the President, the vice president, and the Republican party, could strip the mask from their political enemies who are trying to win the 1960 election with "taxpayers' dollars. They could also do exactly what they proclaim they want to do — knock the "party of the rich" label from the Republican party. It is one of the hottest but least understood social and economic issues of our time.

THE THREE congressmen who opened this lid are men who by ability and sincerity have won the respect of every right-thinking individual in their districts. One is a Democrat; the others, Republican. They are Gordon L. McDonough (R-Calif.), A. Sydney Herlong, Jr., (D-Fla.), and Bruce R. Alger (R-Texas).

Certain public housing bonds, they have back of them the full faith and credit of the United States. This federal backing gives them their gilt-edged value. The federal government gives them a very exclusive tax-exempt basis, which makes them very attractive to people with large incomes. They are really rich men's investments. They pay a little less than regular U.S. government bonds—around 3 per cent, depending upon the year they are issued.

In the omnibus housing bill passed by the House committee, about $2,600,000,000 are authorized, and over their 40-year life they will generate $1,900,000,000 in interest. But to a person of large means who pays 50 per cent or more in income taxes, the tax advantage will be very large, indeed.

As an example of the windfall, Mr. Herlong cited an issue acquired by a large bank to be sold to its clients. While the interest rate on these would be 3.4 per cent, the people who get them, provided they have incomes of from $50,000 to $100,000 a year, will realize from 14 to 26 per cent on their investment. And it should be noted that this range of income is exceeded by a great many people in this country.

THESE BONDS go into the market in competition with regular U.S. bonds, which pay only a little more in interest and which the Treasury is having plenty of trouble in selling. The reluctance of investors compels the Treasury to pay higher and higher interest on its bonds.

This will be an item in the budget which must be paid every year for all those years. The impact, therefore, will fall on all taxpayers, including the "little fellows" that the liberals claim they love so much. Thus, the liberals behind this housing bill, just like those who have voted over and over for similar bills, are really soaking the poor to enrich the rich.

This deception has been going on for a long time, and there have been strenuous protests against it. In 1952, the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, W. McC. Martin, Jr., said:

"Not only do such issues (tax-free housing bonds) absorb some of the funds which would otherwise supply a market for government bonds or for mortgages generated by new private construction but they afford an opportunity for wealthy individuals and corporations to reduce legally their income tax payments in a period when it is essential that tax revenues be as large as possible."

Some of the mayors who are rushing to Washington to support these liberal housing bills should realize also that these tax-exempt housing bonds go into competition with their own municipal bonds and compel them to pay more and more interest to get money for their own communities.

WHY DID JESUS DIE?

For more than 1900 years the eyes of the Christian world have been focused on the cross of Christ. What was the purpose of that cross? Why did Jesus die?

Men have given many answers to those questions. But what did Christ and His apostles have to say about the purpose of His death? Just listen:

"Christ died for our sins." "God commendeth His love toward us in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." "Christ suffered for our sins, the just for the unjust."

"God was in Christ reconciling the world unto Himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them." "Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the Law, being made a curse for us."

In other words, when Jesus died on the cross He was suffering the punishment and removing the guilt of all the sins of all the world. He died as a substitute—for us.

Whether you realize it or not, it was for you that Christ died. You were "reconciled to God by the death of His Son." Salvation is now yours—full, free, and final. "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."—That is why Jesus died!

Sunday is a Special Day

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Monday	John	18	1-14
Tuesday	John	18	15-27

Sunday is a special day for Sheila. She likes to go to church

For one thing, the church is beautiful. Sheila likes to look at the soft light filtering through the colored glass windows. She likes the delicate scent of the beautiful flowers, and the majestic tones of the organ. She likes to sing, too, and she knows several hymns "all the way through," even without the hymnal to guide her.

She particularly likes this season because she knows that Palm Sunday is a time for special rejoicing in the Church.

Sheila feels the way she does because her parents have taught her that going to church is a privilege and a joy. Is Sunday just another day for your child, or is it—as it is for Sheila—a special day?

Salem, East Tech Meet Tonight In Ohio AA Title Scrap

Edgerton Faces Lynnwood In 'A' Championship Contest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Cleveland East Tech vs Salem in Class AA, and Edgerton vs Lynnwood-Jacksontown in Class A.

That's the menu today for Ohio's anything-can-happen high school basketball championship finals at St. John Arena.

The finals are a many-angled feature.

For instance:

East Tech, with a 50-game winning streak, can become the third school in Class AA history to repeat for the crown—only Dayton Stivers and Middletown having done it previously.

Salem, by upsetting the Scarabs, can make Quaker coach Johnny Cabas the first Buckeye mentor to take both the big and little school titles. He won the smaller school laurels in 1947 with the colorful Columbiana Clippers.

This is the first time since 1927, when Kent State defeated Oberlin 20-16 with Cleveland Indian general manager Frank Lane as referee, that two teams from the populous Northeastern district have tangled in the big school pay-off contest.

East Tech, as a 28th birthday present for coach John Broski, turned on the heat Friday night for a whopping 83-47 win over Toledo Scott. Salem came from behind to nip Middletown's rebuilt Middies 68-65—the second straight year the Butler County crew which boasts seven state championships has failed to get past the first round. The two Middle losses have been by a total of four points.

In Class A two Cinderella teams emerged as the finalists, Edgerton, from far up in the northwest corner of the state, trimmed Northwestern of Wayne County, the defending king and top-ranked club in the class, 58-51.

Lynnwood-Jacksontown, which passes from existence in June through a consolidation maneuver, ousted the last of the Class A unbeaten teams by halting fifth-ranked Salem Local of Champaign County 61-53. Salem Local was the third straight unbeaten team to fall before the Trojans, who had whipped Racine (22-0) and New Boston (27-0) in the Athens regional to get into the big show.

Should the Trojans take the title, an oddity pops up. The Jackson-town team was beaten in the race for the Licking County tournament title, but could erase that memory by turning back the speedy and tenacious Bulldogs. Jack Gill, who has guided the Lynnwood squad to the threshold of the throne room, is in his first year of coaching.

A crowd of 12,669 witnessed the Friday afternoon Class A games, and a capacity throng of 13,924 was on hand for the Class AA games.

The East Tech-Salem game is slated at 8 p.m. tonight and the Edgerton-Jacksontown fray at 2 p.m. East Tech has won 24 straight this year, and Salem has a 25-1 record—the only blot being a nine-point setback at the hands of East Tech in the season's fourth game.

Cabas says his boys will avenge that loss and take the crown.

Cabas could credit Jim Lehwald, a 155-pound junior and the only substitute he used against Middletown, for Salem's presence in the finals. The youngster came in late in the third quarter, with the Quakers trailing 47-44. He hit a jump shot to make it 47-46. Then, with the count deadlocked at 50-50 and 18 seconds to go in the period, he banged in another two-point shot to send Salem out front to stay.

His two-point opener opened the fourth period, and he added two free throws with a minute to go to make it 67-59—to much of an edge for Middletown's late spurt to overcome.

Bob Grundish, a tousle-haired 155-pound senior, was the difference in the Edgerton win over Northwestern. He connected for 18 of Edgerton's 31 points in the last half, after the team had hit the midway point deadlocked at 27-27. His 26-point total was tops for the Class A semi-finals.

Al Thrasher Salem Local's sterling shotmaker and rebounder, was as classy as anyone in the place as he garnered 22 points in losing to Lynnwood. He got 17 of his team's 27 first half points, and a collapsing zone defense hampered him in the second session.

Carl Holman and Jim Turner were the Lynnwood big guns with 19 and 18 points respectively.

Jim Stone, hitting from everywhere, paced East Tech to its one-sided win with 26 points, with all Ohio Ken Glenn contributing 18. Only Ray Wolford, bespectacled center, was able to cope with the tall and talented Scarabs as he registered 17 points and picked off a flock of rebounds for Toledo Scott.

Four of Middletown's starters finished in double figures, headed by A. C. Mitchell's 16, but the Salem team's two 5-10 guards, Don Krichbaum and Dave Hunter, had 18 and 16 to offset the Middletown balance — and Lehwald's eight-point contribution ended the Middle magic.

and Mitchell fouled out of the contest and Dave Hunter left with 1:24 remaining.

Each club weaved the ball on offense, setting up screens for inside jump shots. Hunter stood out for Salem in the second quarter by scoring when it really counted. He hit on drive-in shots, jumps, and hook shots.

Foul-shooting was almost constant in the last three minutes of the first half.

Gene Snow of Middletown hit a short jump with 6:28 in the third quarter and the Middies led 40-35.

Even at the 2:18 pole in the same period the Middies again led by five, at 47-42, following a jump shot by Francis Martin.

Then it started. Krichbaum hit a fast break lay up and Jim Lehwald a jump shot to bring Salem within 47-46 with 1:34 remaining.

Salem tied the score 48-48 with 1:10 left on a rebound field goal by Marks. Jim Downing hit for the Middies but Dietch came back with a short jump shot to make it 50-50 with 40 seconds left in the third quarter.

With just 18 seconds remaining, Lehwald tossed in a rebound to put Salem in front 52-50. The Quakers were never behind after that.

Salem's spurt in the third quarter was highlighted by the rebounding of Slaby and Marks and the Quakers fast break in general. They got to functioning in these respects after faltering midway in the second quarter.

Lehwald hit a fast break lay-up to start the final period. Slaby and Dietch traded scores with Middletown's Downing and Mitchell, and with three minutes and 37 seconds left in the game Salem held a slim 57-56 lead.

In the first five minutes of the last frame the two teams totaled only 11 points, but in the last three minutes their total output was 18, nine each.

KRICHBAUM HIT a fast break lay-up and then he came back with a foul to put Salem on top 60-56 with 2:29 left. Mitchell hit a foul but Hunter came through for Salem in a big sort of way. He made two free throws and then stole the ball for a lay-up to put Salem ahead 64-58 with 1:32 left.

Middletown's chances of victory began to sag.

The Quakers kept rolling by splashing their desire and heart all over the floor in every basketball aspect. And with one minute and three seconds to play had their biggest lead of the night at 67-59.

Middletown outscored Salem 6-1 in the final minute, but it wasn't enough as the Quakers won it 68-65 to gain the distinction as the greatest team in Salem High School history. In advancing into the finals, where they can do no worse than being the state runner-up, the Quakers broke the record of the 1927 club which moved into the state semi-finals before losing.

Early in the final quarter Salem began stalling and worked for a good shot.

When Salem dropped a 12-5 lead earlier and fell behind later, 34-27, it was mainly because Middletown was hot and Salem was not hitting or rebounding. The tide turned in the middle stages of the final quarter because of the team's rebounding, stalling, and occasional fast breaks, which were done in an atmosphere of poise and outright heads-up play.

Middletown knew they were in the game. Salem's recent play has been characterized by the fact they don't quit but keep plugging away by keeping the pressure on the other team. Such was the case again last night.

There were no outstanding Salem heroes, but nevertheless Dave Hunter was superb in scoring on every shot, as was the role filled by their sixth man Jim Lehwald. He got eight points including the four that put Salem ahead for good.

KRICHBAUM, who failed to hit a field goal in the last three games, was his old self last night and finished as the game's high man with 18, while Hunter had 16, and Dietch 10.

Slaby, Marks, and Lehwald all had eight apiece. Officials called 26 fouls on Middletown and 17 on Salem. Each team got 31 rebounds. Slaby had nine and Marks eight.

Middletown got 26 of 56 shots for 46.4 per cent and hit on 13 of 23 fouls. Salem made 22 of 53 shots for 41.5 per cent and 24 of 39 fouls.

Toledo Scott did not belong on the same floor with Tech in the first semi-final game last night as the Scarabs rolled easily to a convincing 83-47 win. Tech had too much fast break, press, and height for the outclassed Toledo team.

Cleveland Nips Boston 5-4; Yanks Take Pair; Orioles Win

By The Associated Press
Baltimore's baseball brass today smiled over their wisdom in latching onto a pair of pitching hand-me-downs.

The castoffs — Hoyt Wilhelm and Ernie Johnson — have indicated by their clever hurling that at age 36 and 35, respectively, they still can be effective.

Wilhelm and Johnson both have been vital cogs for pennant-winning clubs in the past. Hoyt with the New York Giants and Johnson with Milwaukee's Braves.

Knuckleballer Wilhelm and speed-balling Johnson, who laid their claim to fame as relief specialists, combined to shut out St. Louis 3-0 Friday for the Orioles' fourth consecutive victory.

Meanwhile the world champion New York Yankees and the National League champion Milwaukee Braves engaged in a rare exhibition doubleheader. The Yanks bopped the Braves 6-3 and 5-4 in the day-night affair at Miami.

In other games, Los Angeles edged Cincinnati 3-2; Cleveland snipped Boston 5-4; Washington shaded Kansas City 3-2; Detroit beat Pittsburgh 5-3, and Chicago's Cubs subdued San Francisco 3-1.

Bill Skowron hit a three-run homer off Bob Buhl for the Yankees' first game victory. The night cap was decided on an unearned ninth inning tally.

The Dodgers and Reds flew from rain-soaked Florida to Havana to get in their game. Duke Snider doubled home what proved to be the deciding run in the third off former L.A. Angeles pitcher Don Newcombe.

The Indians continued their mastery over the Boston club, now 10-2 in the standings. They scored two in the ninth to remain the only team that has beaten the Red Sox.

Roy Sievers and Bob Lemon drove in all of Washington's runs as Russ Kemmerer limited the A's to two hits in his fifth inning stint.

Frank Lary, Paul Foytack and Jim Bunning combined to five hit Pittsburgh as the Tigers benefited from three Pirates miscues.

Right-hander Bob Anderson went the distance for the Cubs and held the Giants to four hits. Home runs by Chick King and Tony Taylor paced the Chicago attack.

'We'll Beat East Tech,' Cabas Predicts After Middle Win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Confident Salem challenged powerful Cleveland East Tech and Edgerton tangles with Lynnwood-Jacksontown today as the Class AA and A high school cage classic swings into the final round.

Edgerton from Williams County and Jacksontown, a couple of unheralded outfits, clash in a 2 p.m. contest that defies anyone to name the winner.

In the AA nightcap, defending champion Tech is an overwhelming favorite to cop its second straight crown. If coach John Broski's Scarabs win as expected, they'll become only the third team in history to capture the state tournament twice in a row.

But Salem coach John Cabas has other ideas. After his Quakers came from behind Friday night to edge Middletown 68-65, the Mount Union product flatly predicted: "We'll beat East Tech."

If Salem does succeed in pulling the upset of the year, it will be sweet revenge against the only team that has spoiled an otherwise perfect season.

Earlier this season, Tech stopped the Quakers, 68-59 in the only meeting between the two schools. Salem has won 25 times and sports a 22-game win skein.

Cabas is playing it cute on just what strategy he'll use to try to whip Tech. "We'll beat them by scoring more points than they will," he says.

Broski, who celebrated his 28th birthday Friday and who has an enviable record of 121 wins against only 12 setbacks in six seasons, isn't saying much. Apparently, he plans to let his players do his talking for him.

In the Class A affair, two hot-shooting teams will vie for honors. Edgerton, from near the Indiana border, fired 51 per cent to oust defending champion Northwestern of Wayne County, 58-51.

Jacksontown, which failed in a bid to win the Licking County tournament, now has embarrassed three unbeaten teams, and in succession to boot-New Boston, Racine and Salem Local Friday, 61-53.

Here are some capsule comments from the coaches after Friday's action:

Broski—"We looked a little jittery in the first quarter but settled down after that." Tech drubbed Toledo Scott, 83-47.

Cabas—"We weren't fired up tonight because we were looking ahead to Tech."

Paul Walker of Middletown—"We didn't play well against Salem but were tickled to come this far."

Andy Kandik, Toledo Scott—"We played one of our worst games—but it wouldn't have made any difference."

Jack Gill, Lynnwood—Jacksontown—"We've played better teams than Salem but their Al Thrasher was the best player we've faced."

G. D. Shoup, Edgerton—"I wasn't surprised by my team's shooting. They've been hitting 50 per cent all year."

Dan Baker, Northwestern—"We played below par and Dean Chance all-Ohio had one of his poorest games."

Bill Hupp, Salem Local—"We lost the game on the free throw line. We just weren't up to par but we've nothing to be ashamed of."

Three Tied For Lead In Golf Tourney

ST. PETERSBURGH, Fla. (AP)—Much to everyone's surprise, including his own, a young driving range operator from Danvers, Mass., who is vacationing here, was in a three-way tie for the lead as the second round of the $15,000 St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament started today.

"The best competitive round I ever played," Tom Mahan Jr. blurted as he turned in a sparkling six-under-par 66 in the first round to tie big George Bayer of Glen Eagles, Ill., and Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif., both seasoned tournament pros.

That Bayer should be right up there was not surprising. The Lakewood course was mushy from the heavy rain which forced postponement from Thursday. It put a premium on carry, and Bayer is the most prodigious hitter among the operating pros.

Lema could be up there, as he has shown himself capable of fine rounds. But young Mahan's presence at the top was astonishing. His father also played, carding a 78.

Despite the sodden terrain, scores were remarkably low. Forty-one pros broke par, and 60 were par or better.

Delaney Takes 33rd Indoor Mile Contest

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ron Delaney won his 33rd straight indoor mile race, but had a close call Friday night when Hungary's Istvan Rozsavolgyi pounced up to the finish line only a step or so behind.

The time of 4:06.6 disappointed the 9,330 fans at the Knights of Columbus track meet who had turned out in hopes of seeing Delaney's world record time of 4:01.4 lowered.

But when the early pace was too slow, neither Rozy nor the Irishman from Villanova wanted to perk it up. Rozy led by a yard with two laps to go. They were abreast starting the gun lap. Then Delaney opened up and grabbed a 10-yard lead.

But Rozy wasn't quitting and came back at Ron with a desperate burst of speed that just missed. Delaney ran the last quarter in 59.4 seconds.

The big thrills were provided by another Hungarian, Lazslo Tabori, and a local boy, Dave Mills, now a Purdue freshman.

Tabori ran the third fastest indoor two-mile (8:47.8), cracked Greg Rice's 16-year-old meet record by more than three seconds and soundly whipped Al Lawrence. The latter is an Australian from the University of Houston who two weeks ago set the world record (8:46.8).

Mills, who wasn't considered in the same class with the other runners in the 600-yard run, hped by three swift runners — Pitt's Mel Barnwell, Nick Ellis of Morgan State and Josh Culbreath, the national indoor champion.

Bradley, St. John's Meet in Title Clash

NEW YORK (AP) — Bradley went after its second National Invitation Tournament championship in three years today when the Peoria Braves met St. John's of New York. For their part, the Redmen were trying for an unprecedented third NIT title.

The experts rated the Madison Square Garden game, climax of the 22nd annual post-season basketball classic, a pick 'em affair.

The game will be televised nationally by NBC starting at 4 p.m. (EST).

And the rival coaches, Chuck Orsborn of Bradley and Joe Lapchick of St. John's, were extremely wary of each other.

Bradley whipped St. John's 71-66 early in the season, but both coaches tended to discount that result.

"Bradley isn't the same team now... it's a much better one," said Lapchick, whose Redmen came into the tourney unseeded and have won three games by a total of 39 points.

Deaths, Funerals

Mrs. Samuel Farmer

Mrs. Mary Bell Hartzell Farmer, 81, of RD 3, Salem, died at 10 p.m. Friday at the Columbiana County Home, where she had been a patient for two months. She died of a cerebral hemorrhage following a long illness.

She was born at Fredericktown, July 6, 1877, the daughter of Andrew and Mary Eaton McFarland. She was a member of the Highland Christian Church.

Her first husband, Robert Hartzell, died in 1927. Samuel Farmer, her second husband, died in 1944.

Survivors include one daughter Mrs. Gladys Early of Monroe, Mich.; one son, Oakley Hartzell of RD 3, Salem; one sister, Mrs. Lessie Dailey of Fredericktown; one brother, Everett McFarland of Fredericktown and two grandchildren.

Services will be Monday at 2 p.m. at Arbaugh-Pearce Funeral Home, in charge of the Rev. W. Grant Ward, pastor of the Highland Church.

Burial will be in Grandview Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday evening.

Louis Steiner

Louis Steiner, 61, of 11309 Forest Ave., Cleveland, died this morning at 6:55 in the Salem City Hospital, where he was admitted Feb. 12 for medical treatment.

Mr. Steiner was a cousin of Dr. William A. Koloszi of E. 7th St.

Pelliccioni Infant

ELLSWORTH—Graveside services were held this afternoon at Ellsworth Cemetery for Earl E. Pelliccioni, two-day-old son of Merle and Evelyn Ford Pelliccioni of Ellsworth, who died in Salem City Hospital Friday morning.

Besides his parents, he is survived by two sisters Joyce Ann and Debbie; two brothers, Rickey and Gary, all at home; and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Pelliccioni of Ellsworth and Mr. and Mrs. John Ford of Bentleyville, Pa.

The Rev. Emory Lowe, pastor of the Ellsworth Presbyterian Church, officiated at the service.

Tibetans

from the Red Chinese command in the capital telling him to report at once without bodyguards.

The whereabouts of the Dalai Lama, who is worshipped by the 1,300,000 Tibetans as their religious and political leader, was not known.

There was speculation in Indian newspapers that the captive ruler may have been kidnapped by the Communists or fled from his great Potala palace under protection of friends.

New Delhi authorities reportedly asked the Red Chinese Embassy here to take any steps necessary to protect the Indian consulate in Lhasa.

The Red Chinese here declined to comment on the reports of the fighting.

The Indian Foreign Ministry's confirmation of open fighting in Lhasa is significant. Careful not to antagonize Red China, Prime Minister Nehru has tended to discount reports of unrest and revolt in Tibet.

These reports of trouble in the mysterious land in the Himalayas have been growing since last summer when Khampa tribesmen of eastern Tibet slipped out of Lhasa to launch a guerrilla campaign against the Chinese Communists from mountain strongholds just south and east of the capital.

At New Waterford in grades seven and eight division winners were Cathey Trotter, Donella Dailey, both of Beaver Local; Marjorie Clark and Judy Cope, both of Fairfield-Waterford; Arlene Hasson and Laura Strader, both of Beaver Local. Alternate is Bill Myer of Beaver Local.

House

Without controversy and by voice vote, the House passed and sent to the Senate a money bill appropriating $779,402,000 to the Treasury, $3,847,160,000 to the Post Office and $1,535,000 to the Tax Court.

These sums are $51,920,000 less than the Post Office requested, $3,310,000 less than the Treasury asked but the same amount sought by the Tax Court.

Passage of the bill cleared the way for a House vote and an almost certain floor fight next week on an omnibus appropriation bill which had contained Eisenhower's loan fund request.

The bill now earmarks $2,479,340,494 to finance miscellaneous federal agencies and departments for the remaining three months of the 1959 fiscal year.

Altogether, the Appropriations Committee slashed the omnibus measure by $385,614,032—of which the loan fund rejection was the biggest cut.

chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, and presidential science adviser James R. Killian.

On the British side Macmillan asked Con O'Neill, assistant secretary in the London Foreign Office and Sir Patrick Dean, Foreign Office deputy undersecretary for defense matters, to come from Washington.

Ailing Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is represented at the conference by acting Secretary Christian A. Herter, Macmillan's chief adviser is Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Aside from Berlin and German problems, it was evident that Eisenhower and Macmillan were planning to discuss the deadlock negotiations with the Soviet Union on a nuclear test ban. This is among the issues on which the two do not see eye-to-eye.

Macmillan suggested to Khrushchev a month ago in Moscow some new ideas on a test ban. The ideas have not been officially disclosed, but Eisenhower told a recent news conference he was not convinced they were practical.

Railroad Track Man Suffers Broken Leg

Francis Mundy, 60, of Salineville, a track walker for the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., was admitted to Salem City Hospital Friday at 10:30 a.m. following a mishap while working near East Palestine. Mundy, suffering from a broken right leg, is reported to be in fairly good condition. His injury was caused by a piece of steel which fell off the train and hit him on the leg.

POLE FALLS ONTO CAR

A city light pole fell onto an auto owned by Glen R. Zeppernick, 311 Newgarden Ave., sometime before 4 a.m. today.

Ventspils (Windau), on the Latvian coast of the Baltic.

A usually reliable informant versed in east European affairs said the harbors of both towns are shallow, but the Russians plan dredging to accommodate trans-oceanic tankers.

SSoviet oil sold to north Europeans in the past has had to come from the Black Sea by tankers on month-long trips via the Mediterranean, Atlantic and English Channel.

Swedish experts take the Soviet bid as a first sign of an all-out sales drive in northern Europe.

They say the Caucasian crude which the Soviets offer to sell from ports a one day voyage from Stockholm and Copenhagen presently only is fit for heating purposes.

But the Soviets are building a refinery at Ventspils and they are expected to turn out gasoline there suitable for the Western market.

Swedish informants also have reported the rapid development of a large pipeline system for natural gas in the Soviet Union and its satellites.

The Soviets told Swedes at trade Negotiations in Moscow home time ago they will be able to offer Sweden Ukrainian natural gas through plastic pipelines under the Baltic Sea in a few years.
